

AUDITION INFO

Audition process

1. Fill out an audition form and get your picture taken.
2. We'll do a quick warm-up with some theatre games. These are fun tension breakers, but also an important part of the audition process. We're looking to see how well you listen and follow directions, among other things.
3. We'll do a round of "lukewarm" readings from the sides. Pick something and prepare (with partners if appropriate). We'll call people in the order that they let us know they're ready.
4. Another quick round of theatre games, then another round of readings. We'd like to read everyone once before we read anyone twice. If you have to leave early, please let us know before you go.

You're auditioning for all plays, regardless of what you read (exception: Julius Caesar is all-male, Henry VI is all-female). If you're only interested in specific plays or specific roles, please indicate that on your audition form. This will reduce your chance of being cast.

Make sure you understand who you are, what you're saying and why you're saying it. If you're not sure, ask (no shame). We'll immediately have you read again with an adjustment but the first time through is all you. Make a strong choice. Have fun.
